one woman's powerful journey from independence into a marriage paralyzed by the grip of domestic violence and back again to a life of hope and wholeness like so many women i wanted a home children a loving husband and a pet when life didn't work out the way i hoped by the time i was 30 i started to panic i was actively looking for love when i met a man who would ultimately change my life and the lives of those closest to me this story has a happy ending unfortunately not all victims of domestic violence are so fortunate there are steps you can take to free yourself or help free someone you know through my story you'll find out how you will walk away with a better understanding of how someone can lose everything to an abuser and when she is ready reclaim her life what would ever make a woman stay in an abusive marriage or relationship a lot of things among them shame and fear shame of leaving shame of failure fear of your most personal marital details becoming public in a divorce proceeding and fear of suffering socially or financially by a divorce for some there's a fear of being alone if you're unable to understand this be thankful but also be careful prior to my marriage to the pastor i would never have tolerated anyone treating me this way rebad from the celebrated historian of nazi germany the story of a remarkable but completely unsung group that risked everything to help the most vulnerable in the early 1920s amidst the upheaval of weimar germany a small group of peaceable idealists began to meet practicing a quiet communal life focused on self improvement for the most part they had come to know each other while attending adult education classes in the city of essen but the bund as they called their group had lofty aspirations under the direction of their leader artur jacobson its members hoped to forge an ideal community that would serve as a model for society at large but with the ascent of the nazis the bund was forced to reevaluate its mission focusing instead on offering assistance to the persecuted despite the great risk their activities ranged from visiting devastated jewish families after kristallnacht to sending illicit letters and parcels of food and clothes to deportees in concentration camps to sheltering political dissidents and jews on the run what became of this group and how should its deeds often small seemingly insignificant acts of kindness and assistance be evaluated in the broader history of life under the nazis drawing on a striking set of previously unpublished letters diaries gestapo reports other documents and his own interviews with survivors historian mark roseman shows how and why the bund undertook its dangerous work it is an extraordinary story in its own right but roseman takes us deeper encouraging us to rethink the concepts of resistance and rescue under the nazis ideas too often hijacked by popular notions of individual heroism or political idealism above all the bund's story is one that sheds new light on what it meant to offer a helping hand in this dark time
